Dispute Resolution: Litigation and Arbitration

Kevin Villanueva Sotomayor is a lawyer from Pontificia Universidad Católica del Perú (PUCP), with undergraduate and postgraduate studies in Civil Procedure Law, International Standard Construction Contracts (Universidad Peruana de Ciencias Aplicadas - UPC) and Works for Taxation (Universidad Continental).

Kevin has been an associate in the Lima, Peru office of Garrigues' Litigation and Arbitration practice since January 2018. He specializes in civil and commercial litigation and arbitration, with an emphasis on construction (private and state-owned).

Kevin is the author of several academic articles on civil matters and dispute resolution.

Experience

International Visiting Professional in Madrid from September 2024 to November 2024.

Associate from January 2021.

Junior since June 2019.

Trainee (Legal Assistant - Professional Practice) since January 2018.

Joined the firm in January 2018.

He completed pre-professional internships at the Peruvian firm Benites, Forno & Ugaz (today Benites, Vargas & Ugaz) and at the Arbitration Unit of the Center for Conflict Analysis and Resolution (CARC PUCP).

He has extensive experience in judicial proceedings and arbitration in civil and commercial matters, with special mention in construction cases under private contracts and public contracts (State contracts, Works for Taxes, Public Private Partnerships and Investment in Assets).

His experience also includes recurrent advice and issuance of legal opinions on contractual matters (private and public).

He recurrently participates in legal due diligence procedures, carried out prior to the signing of mergers and acquisitions (M&A), financing and refinancing transactions, and bond issues. Specifically, his intervention in these procedures consists of identifying and assessing the risks concerning claims that could potentially be argued before a judge or arbitrator, or that are already known by one of them.

He is fluent in Spanish and English.
